Conclusion

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1, 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bucci (US 6,786,400).

As per Claims 1, 5

Bucci ('400) discloses, a consumer depository account (checking account) maintained by a first (second) financial institution holding funds on behalf of said consumer, see Fig 3 (345, 350) and column 2, lines 6-9.

a payment card (multifunctional card) for conducting one or more transactions and incurring charges associated with each such transaction, said card being issued to said consumer by a second (first) financial institution, see column 2, lines 2- 9.

said card further being linked to said depository account (checking account) maintained at said first institution for covering said charges, see column 2, lines 6-14 and column 4, lines 20-23.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-3, 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bucci (US 6,786,400) in view of Bueche (US 6,834,269)

As per Claims 2, 6

Bucci ('400) does not specifically disclose deducting means for automatically deducting from said depository account on a periodic basis an amount to pay a portion or all of said charges

Bueche ('269) teaches deducting means for automatically deducting from said depository account (checking account) on a periodic basis an amount (monthly service fee) to pay a portion or all of said charges, see column 4, lines 60-64.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Bucci's invention to include deducting means for automatically deducting from said depository account on a periodic basis an amount to pay a portion or all of said charges.

One of the ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to do so, for the benefit of saving time and preventing late payment.

As per Claims 3, 7

Art Unit: 4172

Bucci ('400) further discloses a credit limit is associated with said card, which limit is reduced based on said charges, and refreshed automatically as a function of said deducting means, see column 11, lines 4-5. (It is inherent that credit card has a credit limit and the limit (the amount you are allowed to spend) is reduced every time you use it to purchase something. It is also inherent that credit card limit is refreshed automatically every month)

Claims 4, 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bucci (US 6,786,400) in view of Bueche (US 6,834,269), and further in view of Weissman (US 6,353,811)

As per Claims 4, 8

Bucci ('400) does not specifically disclose billing means operated by said second financial institution for periodically informing said consumer of said charges made on the card and of the amount received from said consumer depository account to cover said charges

Weissman ('811) teaches billing means (billing statement) operated by said second financial institution for periodically informing said consumer of said charges made on the card and of the amount received from said consumer depository account to cover said charges, see Abstract of Weissman (lines 17-22) and Fig 2A.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Bucci's invention to include billing means operated by said second financial institution for periodically informing said consumer of said charges made on the card and of the amount received from said consumer depository account to cover said charges.

One of ordinary in the skill would be motivated to do so, for the benefit of allowing customers to keep track of the balance and avoiding over-spending.
